Markovich 'Interested' In Assembly

Creedon Seeks Congress Post

Former SM Mayor Wants GOP Approval

A former mayor of San Mateo will seek the Republican nomination for the new Ninth congressional district comprising San Mateo county.

He is Daniel J. Creedon, who made his announcement of intentions this week.

Creedon is the second to officially announce his intentions to seek election. Richard Dolwig, state assemblyman, is considered to have the backing of the Republican powers . . . that is, if he chooses to run. He still has to make any public announcement of intentions.

The first of the Republican moves to select a candidate is slated for Thursday night when the Republican committee of 200 will start questioning aspirants to the position.

When the congressional candidate has been selected the committee will make a choice of candidates for the two assembly posts and the state senator job.

Herschel Campbell, San Mateo city councilman, has also declared he will seek the Republican nomination to congress.

Daly City Man Driver of Month

Frank Mecchi Best Truck Driver

Northern California's "Driver of the Month" is Frank Mecchi, 43 San Joaquin avenue, Daly City, a truck driver for the Cake and Cookie Division, Langendorf United Bakeries.

Mecchi was awarded an engraved gold watch, a "Driver of the Month" Certificate and a gold lapel pin yesterday at the luncheon meeting of the San Francisco Advertising Club at the Palace Hotel. The awards were made by Pete H. Dawson, District Director, Bureau of Motor Carriers, Interstate Commerce Commission.

The competition—open to all commercial drivers—is sponsored by the National Safety Council, the Truck Owners Association of California and the International Brotherhood of Teamsters. Winners were selected by a panel of judges composed of Clifford E. Peterson, Commissioner of the California Highway Patrol; Pete H. Dawson; Richard L. Mittelstaedt, President, California Public Utilities Commission; A. L. Gilbert, Manager California Newspapers Publishers Association; Paul Scharrenberg, Director of the California Department of Industrial Relations.

Mecchi has been driving a truck for Langendorf United Bakeries for 23 years, and during that period has maintained an outstanding record for safety and courtesy. He drives an estimated 131 miles per week in heavy traffic, and in the 23 year period has not had an accident. As "Driver of the Month" Mecchi will automatically be entered in the "Driver of the Year" competition. The winner of the California judging will automatically be entered in the national competition for "Driver of the Year."

Westlake Rezoning Hearing Slated Monday Evening

Officials See Some Protest

Commercial rezoning of three Westlake areas is expected to draw some protest at an open hearing on the question before the city council Monday evening, a city official said today.

The council plans to rezone blocks in the following districts: Merced drive and Alemany boulevard; Alemany and Junipero Serra boulevard; and El Portal Way and Lake Merced Drive.

Original descriptions for Westlake show these general areas to be commercial, but it is now necessary to rezone each block.

Residents residing in the area of El Portal Way and Lake Merced Drive may sound some protests, as their backyards butt on the northwest corner of Alemany and Junipero Serra boulevard.

Burglary Proves 50% Successful

Whitmore May Form New Theft Detail

A special burglary-theft detail may be set up this year by Sheriff Earl B. Whitmore to combat a situation which has made this type of crime at least 50 per cent profitable in San Mateo county.

Although the sheriff's office has an efficient record for solving the more serious crimes, only 100 of 205 burglaries were solved last year year. Of the robbery cases reported, but five were written off the books.

The 36 legitimate cases of grand theft show that 21 are unsolved.

In the petty theft "department," 283 are still to be unravelled, and only 84 of the 367 criminals were brought to justice.

These figures were part of an annual report completed this week upon Whitmore's first anniversary in office.

Whitmore said burglaries, grand theft and petty theft cases are the hardest to solve, and the San Mateo county record is about the same as for other counties of the same relative size.

Bertetta Named To Industry Board

Fred Bertetta, Daly City councilman, was elected to the board of directors of the San Mateo County Industrial Development association Tuesday night at a dinner marking the first anniversary of the organization.

Pledged to foster economic development in San Mateo county, the association is made up of representatives of leading county cities.

One of the first projects on the organizations' 1952 agenda is the sponsoring of an industrial survey of San Mateo county to determine how its economic and industrial potential can best be developed.

Charles Elder, South San Francisco councilman, was re-elected president of the board.

RECREATION GROUP TO MEET TUESDAY

Meeting Tuesday evening, January 15, the Daly City Recreation Commission will attempt to work out a final spending program for funds remaining in the $101,000 parks bond improvement issue.

This bond issue was passed two years ago, and the monies involved have almost been exhausted. The parks program, however, is proceeding satisfactorily, and should be completed this year, a Commission official said.

The public is cordially invited to attend this important meeting. It gets underway at 7:30 p.m. in City Hall, 75 Wellington avenue.

Judge Sentences Youth On Bad Check Charges

One of two Daly City youths who recently passed bad checks to purchase marijuana is headed back to the California Youth Authority camp today.

Raymond W. Serna, 19, was ordered to the CYA by Superior Judge Edmund Scott, Monday. Serna was in the camp in 1950 for his part in beating up a 38-year-old man with a belt buckle.

Serna admitted passing two checks, each for $69.36, at the Westlake Town and Country Food Center and Kings Market.

He was one of a youthful gang rounded up here last month.

Pedro Fernandezees, 18, of Daly City, has pleaded guilty to similar charges and will be sentenced Monday.

May Be Demo Candidate

Local Insurance Man Probably Will Run For New 25th District

Peter J. Markovich, Daly City insurance man and civic leader, today said he was "deeply interested" in being a candidate for the assembly from the new Twenty-fifth District, which includes the north end of San Mateo county.

A registered Democrat, Markovich says he is "close" to making a definite announcement. He said, however, there were still "several personal considerations" which might alter his decision.

His announcement follows by a day the more definite commitment of Andrew Byrd, Burlingame city councilman, to seek the endorsement of the Republicans for his candidacy for the assembly.

Last month Joseph P. Gilmore, 754 Niantic avenue, said he would run for the assembly from the north district. Until moving to Daly City, Gilmore represented the southern district of San Francisco in Sacramento for 10 years. Gilmore is a Democrat.

In making his announcement today, Markovich declared he believed he could serve the north end, as he has been a resident of this area for the past 40 years, and is "familiar with the many problems besetting the district."

During the past 11 years, Markovich has operated an insurance office at 6454 Mission street. He is presently chairman of the Jefferson high school board of trustees; a member of the San Mateo county school redistricting committee; and a member of the board of directors of St. Mary's college.

He resides at 724 Washington street, Broadmoor, with his wife and three young sons.

BERTETTA URGES COUNCIL ATTENDANCE

Councilman Fred Bertetta today said he hopes residents of Daly City will start the New Year properly by attending the first regular meeting of the city council Monday evening.

The council meets in city hall, 75 Wellington avenue, at 8 o'clock.

"These meetings afford the public an excellent opportunity to take part in the democracy which their sons are fighting so hard to protect," Bertetta said.

SUNDSTROM DONATES 16 PINTS OF BLOOD

A. L. Sundstrom, 174 Crocker avenue, is on his way to establishing a record for blood donations to the San Mateo County Blood Bank.

This week he gave his 16th pint of blood to the bank.

Another Daly City resident, Phil Thorpe, put in his second appearance at the bank this week.

Korean Fighter Wins Bronze Star

Cpl. Babich Cited For Battle Action

A Bronze Star Medal with "V" device recently was awarded to Cpl. Joseph S. Babich, 174 Santa Barbara street, for heroism in Korea.

Babich won the decoration last August during an attack on strongly defended enemy positions with the 25th Division's 8th Field Artillery Battalion.

According to the citation, Babich was laying communication wires in an area shelled by the Communists when he was wounded. Despite the wound, he continued with his work until communications were established between the American forward observers and firing batteries.

"Corporal Babich's notable technical skill and determined devotion to duty are in keeping with the high traditions of the American soldier," the citation states.

Babich is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Babich.

BECKER URGES POLIO FUNDS DRIVE SUPPORT

Judge Charles Becker of the Colma City Court today joined the long list of civic leaders in urging an all-out support of the March of Dimes.

Becker appealed to the public to give generously to this "most worthy cause, so that those stricken with polio may be helped to walk again."

BOOKIE FINES HIT HIGH "C NOTES"

Bookies were a sour note in the symphony of Daly City living last year, but they hit high C when it came to funneling revenue into the county treasury.

County Clerk John A. Bruning reports bookie fines increased revenue fines almost 14 times over. Last year a total of $30,035 was collected by the superior courts, compared to a total of $2,195 for 1950.

Effective CD Organization Promised Soon

Classes Slated At Jefferson High

An effective, well organized civilian defense organization was promised for Daly City within the next 30 days by City Administrator Dan Andersen, today.

Andersen based this statement on the results of a meeting of the joint city-county civilian defense board in Redwood City Wednesday evening. He said Daly City has agreed to go along with a board plan for county training of most civilian defense personnel, thus eliminating the largest hurdle on a course which has kept Daly City running no where for the past 1½ years.

Under the new set-up, the county adult education program will instruct interested students at night classes to be held at Jefferson high school. These courses, in everything from first aid to warden training, are expected to get underway "shortly," Andersen said.

When the students have been thoroughly trained they will be named to various posts in a civilian defense organization approved and counter approved by state and city officials.

Councilman Ed Mooney and Frank Lombardi, named head of the CD transportation corps, accompanied Andersen to the Wednesday night meeting.

TWO LOCAL MEN NAMED TO JURY

Among the grand jury venire of 30 names released this week by Superior Judge Murray Draper, two are from the Daly City area.

The jury will be impanelled next Tuesday, January 15. Judge Draper said in preparing the list he had "attempted to pick persons who represent the county geographically and by occupation."

Local names on the venire list include: Le Roy W. Johnson, business executive, 72 Wilson street; James T. McKay, law editor of 1199 Nimitz drive, Broadmoor.

Compton's In Westlake

Cafeteria Serving Seven Days A Week

The famous foods and pastries of Gene Compton have been introduced to this community with the opening last week of the San Francisco chain's newest branch at the Town and Country Shopping Center here.

The cafeteria is open seven days a week from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., and offers a wide selection of tempting dishes. Local housewives may purchase their bakery needs in a separate section of the establishment.

In keeping with the general scheme of the other stores of the Town and Country Shopping Center, the new Compton's is beautifully and tastefully decorated, and is a welcome addition to the growing facilities of the community.

With 1951 accounted as the second worst polio year in California history, Governor Earl Warren and daughter, Nina, "Honeybear," urge continued support of the March of Dimes throughout January, 1952. Both Governor Warren, state March of Dimes chairman, and "Honeybear," recovered victim of the disease, are active in the January polio-fighting appeal.

Neville Offers Driver Training

Special Dual Control Car To Be Employed

Ira C. Neville, head of Neville Motors, Daly City Ford dealership, has announced that driver training in a special dual-controlled 1951 Ford is now being offered to the public at large.

"For anyone looking for highly qualified driver training under the best and easiest circumstances they should call us right away," Neville asserted.

Neville's Ford has complete dual equipment which includes two steering wheels, two brake pedals, two clutches, two accelerators and even two starters. The unusual feature of this type of instruction, Neville said, is that the instructor always has complete control of the car while the student is learning to drive under actual traffic conditions.

According to Neville, professionally trained drivers have 50 per cent fewer accidents than the student who learns at home. The Army used this same system of driver instruction in its staff cars, trucks, jeeps and other motor vehicles.

Neville Motors, like nine other Bay Area Ford dealers, will have a qualified instructor to give lessons on a fee basis.

Butano Forest

Launch Drive To Save Forest

A county-wide fund raising campaign is in progress by San Mateo PTA'ers of Seventeenth District California Congress of Parents and Teachers. Monies to match the state allocation for purchase of virgin redwood acreage in Butano forest are being solicited by benefit conservation programs in the schools.

Films secured for these programs by Mrs. David R. Sears of Belmont, district conservation chairman, may be booked through program committee members. North county calls should go to Mrs. R. E. Williams of Daly City at PLaza 5-5282.

Conservation

County conservationists have been striving for over twenty years to save the Butano forest, which now is the last stand of virgin redwood timber south of Humboldt county. Approximately $250,000 remains to be raised by June, 1952, to assure this major addition to the state park system. Sixteen hundred eighty acres are in the land parcel located on the south fork of Butano creek.

Under agreement between the California Park Commission, Butano Associates, and the Santa Cruz lumber company this portion of Butano redwoods will be reserved for camping, picnicking and primeval use. San Mateo and Santa Cruz counties have cooperated by donating Memorial and Mt. Madonna parks to the state park system as part payment on the Butano purchase.

Handbook

A handbook titled "San Mateo County At Play," which describes present facilities in all areas, will be distributed to interested organizations by Ralph Shaw, county superintendent of parks and recreation. Memorial Park will continue to be supervised by San Mateo county until the State park operation budget has been increased.

Conservation movies offered for the PTA benefit programs include comedy and nature lore films, with running time from ten minutes to one hour.

Local Building

Wm. Lagomarsino Invites Inspection Of 16 Unit, Three Room Apartments

Meeting the ever growing need for comfortable, modern apartments in the Daly City area, the William Lagomarsino Company this week invited public inspection of a 16-unit apartment building at Price and First streets.

This is the first of a series of modern, convenient structures that the local real estate company plans to construct. Others will be built in the same area, and a similar unit is already underway at Price and Second avenue.

"We are sure the public will find these apartments far above the usual standards as to convenience and luxury," Ricco Lagomarsino said today. "But what is better, they are priced to rent at a reasonable rate."

Parking Solved

The apartments boast three rooms . . . a large living room, bedroom and fully equipped kitchen. There is a tub shower in a beautifully tiled bathroom.

Also, there will be no parking problem, as the apartment has adjoining individual garages.

The unit is a two-story stucco building, featuring plenty of window space and fresh air. In the back is a spacious court for recreation.

The building is within walking distance of a large shopping center, the high school, and the recently completed grade school.

Carl Huber was the builder.

Further information may be had by contacting the company at 7100 Mission, or calling PL. 5-1100.

Christmas Party For Frankie

Last month the ladies of the Colma-Vista Grande Auxiliary No. 1848, Fraternal Order of Eagles, worked together to give a grand Christmas party to the adopted boy, Frankie Claussen.

There was singing, a lovely tree, presents for all the children who came, and, of course, Santa, and ice cream, candy and cake.

Although overwhelmed at Santa, Frankie's first words were, "Santa, you're late. I've been waiting since 7 o'clock for you." (Santa had arrived at 8 o'clock.)

Santa replied, "I'm sorry, Frankie, but it was hard to get here. There was so much traffic and all."

Hearing this, a small girl poked her little companion and stated, "See, I told you so. He got in a traffic jam."

After Frankie opened some of his presents, the children sat down to refreshments. Entertainment was in the form of dancing by Penny Olmquist and Janice Wright.

Auxiliary Visits Veterans Hospital

Christmas was made brighter for approximately 35 men in Letterman Hospital by some of the ladies of the Colma-Vista Grande Auxiliary, No. 1848, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Lee O'Neill made small, red bags which she distributed to other members of the organization who filled them with soap, cards, razors, handkerchiefs, lotions, cigarettes, candy and other items handy for the bed patients. Home baked cookies were given the veterans along with the filled bags. Sgt. Norbert Opitz took charge of delivering these gifts to the hospital.

Members visiting the hospital last month were Alberta Diebel, Frances Nenstiel and Lee O'Neill. The next visit to the hospital promises to be a treat in the form of a tour of the premises.

Supplementing their hospital work, members of the auxiliary are also sending pocket books to a base in Korea. It is emphasized that this reading material is in great demand there as reading is about the only recreation the soldiers have in that locality.

Consequently, anyone having any books or pocket books he no longer needs, is asked to leave them at the Daly City Beauty Shoppe for shipment to Korea.

Sunday, January 27, is going to be a school day for the children of the new Village Play school.

Painting easels, building blocks, finger paints, the doll corner, musical instruments, and the outdoor equipment will be set up.

Visiting children will be encouraged to participate in all the activities, and interested parents may sign up on the waiting list.

Mrs. Honora Wade, teacher, will be introduced. New officers to be presented are: Mrs. Del Guyman, president; Mr. John Tingley, vice-president; Mrs. Edward Lee, secretary; Mrs. Daniel Johnson, treasurer.

Mrs. John Tingley and Mrs. Clarence Johnson are in charge of the event.

Gay-Corders Slate Dance

Local Lads Play For Western Event

The Gay-Corders band will lift the roof of Lovchen Gardens—at least with melody and song—at a special dance this Saturday evening, January 12.

All those interested in swinging and hopping with a fine western band are invited to attend.

Lovchen Gardens is located in Colma on Hillside Boulevard.

Members of the Gay-Corders, ably led by Joe Lewkowitz, are recruited from the hills of Daly City. Some of them made up the first local Eagles Hay Wire band, and when the Eagles noted the "band isn't half bad," Lewkowitz hit on the idea of forming the Gay-Corders.

Where did he get the name? He isn't sure, but it has something to do with a western he once saw in which the hero wore a pair or rip cord pants.

At any rate, you are sure to enjoy the music, regardless of the name.

Local Students Enter Contest

Students of Our Lady of Perpetual Help and the Epiphany Parochial schools, sponsored by Court St. Mary No. 1155, Catholic Daughters of America, have entered a national contest of creative poetry on a theme set up by the national Catholic Daughters of America with the state CDA also offering awards.

Extremely artistic and well balanced emotionally are the fundamental traits of the individual who sent in a filled out personality questionaire with the initials, "L. B."

L. B.'s range of hobbies from such active enterprises as swimming and ceramics to the more introspective ones of reading and writing poetry show that this individual has a well adjusted emotional make-up, as well as being very sensitive and artistic.

Further evidence of this individual's healthy emotionalism is the fact that he enjoys very much meeting new people and that the weather rarely effects his moods.

Musicals and light comedies are L.B.'s favorite movies which choice balanced with the answers to the other questions show that he prefers making an interesting existence for himself rather than living in the shadow of a fictional character's dramatic problems.

The information that L. B. gets annoyed when his plans are upset bolsters the analysis of his independence on a life of his very own, rather than any vicarious existence.

All persons desiring an analysis of their personality by Dorothy Davis are invited to fill out the following questionnaire and mail it to The Record, 3317 San Jose avenue. This service is free and all answers will be given prompt and careful consideration. Also anyone having a problem he would like discussed by Miss Davis is invited to submit it to this column for advise.

All answers by Miss Davis will be found in this column.

TRAFFIC VIOLATION FINES TOO LOW

Perennial traffic violators may object, but we think San Francisco has the key to additional revenue for Daly City.

This week the Bay City upped many traffic fines $1 to $2, with an estimated gain for the city treasury of thousands of dollars. We fail to see why Daly City should not follow suit.

Revenue from traffic fines, if kept within bounds, appears to be an equitable way of raising necessary dollars. And Daly City certainly could use as much extra cash as the traffic will bear.

Speeding fines under the new setup for San Francisco are: $10 for traveling 35 miles in a 15 mile zone (this compares with $5 for Daly City); $5 for 35 miles in a 25 mile zone, as to Daly City's $2.50; $10 at 50 miles in a 35 mile zone, as compared to $7.50 here.

Merely by upping the fines to the level of San Francisco, Daly City would find more dollars in the treasury at the end of the fiscal year.

Once more, this might discourage speeders who, realizing the fine is light, are more apt to speed in Daly City than in San Francisco.

All in all it seems like a good idea, and one which we suggest the city council and police department immediately investigate.

AN EXCELLENT RESOLUTION

Councilman Fred Bertetta this week called upon local residents to start the New Year properly by attending city council meetings.

We think this might be an appropriate New Year's resolution for any civic minded resident. This is especially true as 1952 will be a political year, in which knowledge of city officials is doubly important.

It is unfortunate that many men elected to public office are given the necessary votes by residents who thereafter take no interest in the work done by their duly elected officers. Nowhere is this truer than in Daly City, where no more than six or seven residents turn up at a council meeting.

We wonder how the thousands of voters who do cast a ballot choose their candidate. It certainly can not be from personal contact, at least within the confines of a public meeting. Perhaps the final vote is determined by no more than the position of the candidate's name on the ballot, or his ability to flash a pleasant smile.

We sincerely hope, at least for the months before the city, county and national elections, a little more heed will be paid to the true qualifications of the men seeking public office. And nowhere can these merits be better judged than by attending public functions, such as a Daly City council meeting.

Let us start off the New Year by observing the true meaning of democracy...take part in your city, county and national government.

THE REPUBLICAN CLAMBAKE

San Francisco is host next week (January 17-19) to the Republican National Committee Conference, a gathering of some 3000 G.O.P. party leaders and big-wigs.

The event has unusual significance, because it is the first time in more than 30 years that either of the major political parties has deigned to hold an event of this kind in the Far West. The one and only previous affair at all comparable was the Democratic National Convention in San Francisco in 1920.

The coming of the Republicans is obviously a move to recognize and woo the West, particularly California, a major political power, now that it is the second most populous state in the Union, tied with Pennsylvania in the number of its national convention delegates.

The Democrats have tried to convince the West in recent years that they and they alone are concerned with the West's great problems—conservation, reclamation, water resources, land policies. The Republicans are out to show us that they are interested, too.

All of the candidates or their representatives will be on hand in San Francisco next week to let us and the world know how they stand on Western and other issues. At the same time, they will lay plans for the Republican National Convention which will be held in Chicago in June.

California welcomes the Republicans and wishes them well. Regardless of party, we of the West will benefit by their deliberations in San Francisco.

GIVE TO THE MARCH OF DIMES

The annual March of Dimes is here again and we hardly need remind you that your dimes, and especially your dollars, are urgently needed.

The fight against polio is a long and costly one and it can be won only through unfailing public support—your support. Funds must be had for research and for aid to those stricken. What you give helps both in your community and in the overall national effort to conquer the disease.

So, give today—and generously!

A FINANCIAL LOOK AT '51

The California economy moved ahead solidly and substantially in 1951. The year end financial statements of California banks left no doubt about that.

The continuing economic surge was reflected in higher bank resources with loans and deposits generally registering sharp increases. The report of California's statewide branch banking institution, Bank of America, was particularly significant in that this institution reaffirmed California's position of world leadership in banking by becoming the first non-government bank to exceed $7 billion in resources. The increase in savings of $386 million which Bank of America reports, together with its nearly 2½ million loans for more than $5½ billion in 1951 further indicate the economic pace in California.

One thing which makes the California picture especially healthy is the way new industries are developed. An example of this is cotton production. Hardly a decade ago California's cotton output was negligible. Today it is not only one of our biggest money crops but California is now among the top cotton producing states of the nation.

It is this spirit of enterprise which is rapidly pushing our State on to a dominant position both in our own country and in the world.

Local Serviceman Writes Editor Stating He Enjoys Reading "The Record"

Dear Editor:

It's been bothering me a long time about me not telling you about my change of address, but it was only for three months. My Detached Service here at Chanute AFB is almost over so my address is still 3626 Maint. Sqdn., Tyndall AFB, Florida.

One thing is changed, though; I'm a corporal. When I was home for Christmas, someone mentioned that I should tell The Record. I'm afraid I was busy as I only had a few days at home and wanted to see as many people as I could.

I may as well tell you that I'm going to Hydraulics School. The course covers just about every aircraft the Air Force has in operation today. I only hope I can remember all that they've taught me. I can put my knowledge to good use not only as a serviceman but as a civilian. The fellow who just enters the service should take advantage of every school he can attend. It's free and the instructors are just everyday "Guys." That's why it's easy and pleasant to learn a subject we'd otherwise detest.

To tell the truth, I didn't want the school but they, my home base, said I had to go. Well, after two months and more knowledge of aircraft, I can say I like the subject.

The reason why I'm here, and about 100,000 more, is because the Air Force wants all their Aircraft Mechanics to be specialists on certain units of the aircraft that they're working on. In that way the aircraft will be in commission longer and maintenance can be done faster. It's a good idea and should work out as they planned.

Well, I've said about enough for now. Receiving The Record is a happy day each week, so my warmest thanks and a late New Year's greeting. May it hold untold happiness for each and every one of you and your staff.

Sincerely,
ALEX SOLA, Cpl.
USAF 1936338

P.S. Almost forgot. Your printing the addresses of the Daly City Servicemen has paid off very well. I've heard from friends who lost contact with me. I'll say Thanks with a capital "T" for all the "guys" whose names appear in the paper.

From A Corner

By Bill Katz

Digsby lives down in the next block. He is a primitive who delights in kicking children, beats up his wife on Sunday, swears out complaints against neighbors, and relaxes by playing ping pong with a trained ape. It is often difficult to tell the ape from Digsby.

Not that Digsby is ugly. It is just that he spent too many years trying to resemble a bull dog with fleas. Underneath it all, he looks almost human.

No one is quite certain how Digsby "got that way." He doesn't know himself. For that matter, he doesn't really care.

Digsby has few friends; one, to be exact. His friend is that other neighbor, the one who grows mushrooms in his basement, and whose idea of a fine day is fog spiced with a little rain. Good for the mushrooms, you know.

Digsby likes this fellow because he only sees him when the mushroom grower has harvested a corp. This doesn't happen very often. There hasn't been a really good crop in five years.

Ends Meet

No one knows how Digsby makes ends meet. And from the number of bill collectors and loans outstanding, Digsby isn't meeting anything.

He isn't very punctual, anyway. He was supposed to have returned your lawnmower the day after he used it. But two years go by fast, and Digsby may have forgotten.

He forgot he had a home one night, and rang your doorbell. He was sneering only out of one side of his mouth, and his breath was a good reason for prohibition. Not that Digsby drinks. He bends his elbow, but only because the doctor ordered it.

You helped him find his way home, almost got your pants torn off by his pet cougar, and fell down his front stairs. The next day he had you served for damaging property.

Rental

Digsby owns an automobile, the biggest and fastest one in the block. Well, he doesn't exactly own it . . . he rents it from the finance company. He delights in violating the speed limit, honking at old women crossing the street too slowly, and swearing at other drivers who are mad enough to believe the highway isn't Digsby's private property.

He is a great guy, patriotic to the point of voting for no one because "they are all crooks, anyway."

Digsby has one redeeming factor. He is growing older. Not that Digsby is afraid to die. He is a veteran, having served overseas with a mess kit battalion.

Educated

He is relatively well educated. He was a little shaken when a dog he was teaching to do tricks kept right on barking while Digsby was rolling over and over on the floor. But that was an exceptionally intelligent dog.

When not sleeping, Digsby relaxes by dreaming up various methods of tormenting the neighbors. He loves to build bond fires when the woman next door puts out a wash; is amused to park his car in front of the next door driveway, and rises an hour early Sunday morning to blast the peace of the neighborhood with a loud radio.

Digsby is a composit of the diabolical "guy next door" in most communities. His only role in life that we can see is to hang crepe at his own funeral.

Economic Outlook

Horn Of Plenty Flooded California With Prosperity During Past Year

The Year 1951 was an outstanding one for the West—California in particular and the West Coast generally being one of the nation's bright spots, according to a survey just completed by San Francisco economists.

Transition to the so-called "mobilization economy" on the Coast was smoother than in many other parts of the nation. This was attributed to the concentration of major aircraft production on the Coast with employment and payrolls climbing rapidly; California's new records in food and fibre production; accelerated port activities to keep abreast of demands of the Korean war; and increasing heavy industry activity. (The Defense Production Administration certified new plant facilities in California alone of nearly $400,000,000 during the year.)

The State's record employment figure of 4,500,000 at the end of the year and good increases in power production, oil output, rail freight movement, construction and retail trade all reflected California's position in the vanguard of the nation.

Airplane Companies

Six major airframe companies on the Pacific Coast were employing 160,167 workers at mid-December, with 112,180 workers employed by the five companies in Southern California alone.

The Canners League of California announced incomplete returns at year's end showed more than 95,000,000 cases of fruits and vegetables canned in the State last year, not including citrus fruits. California's burgeoning frozen food industry has estimated a total of 260,000,000 pounds of food was frozen last year and this is expected to increase in 1952 with completion of new orange and lemon juice freezing plants. The total dried fruit crop in 1951 is estimated at 500,000 tons, well above 1950's production but below the average crops for the industry in the past.

Oil Production

The year 1951 saw California produce the largest quantity of crude oil in its history—356,000,000 barrels. Nearest approach to that was 340,000,000 barrels in 1948. Approximately 2400 new wells were drilled during the year, in spite of an oil well casing shortage which sharply restricted drilling of wells that could have added considerable to the over-all output. California oil operators are expected to increase their drilling program during 1952 with a larger number of "wildcats" searching for new reserves.

Steel making in the West, particularly in California, was on the increase and is expected to be doubled in the next decade.

Bank Of America Reports Greatest Deposit Gains

Giannini Warns Against Subsidies

At the annual meeting of Bank of America, Tuesday, President L. M. Giannini told the shareholders that in 1951, savings and time deposits recorded their greatest increase for any postwar year.

Also, an all-time record was established in constructive use of bank credit to meet expanding needs of the California economy in both normal and defense sectors.

There were 4,680,677 deposit accounts on the books of the bank, he reported, an increase of 341,747 in the year. Exclusive of public funds, checking balances averaged $1573 and savings balances $683. The institution now operates 529 branches and 25 military facilities in California and one in Saipan, eight overseas banking offices, including the Duesseldorf branch of Bank of America (International), and offices of representatives in New York, Paris, Milan, Zurich and Mexico City.

In discussing the national interest President Giannini pointed out that one whose income called for $75 as federal tax in 1940 now faces a tax bill of about $580, an increase of 673 per cent. We are expected to shoulder increased taxes to finance defense, but the fact is, he declared, that too many tax dollars are being spent for purposes far removed from defense.

Welfare Money

More than half the great increase in total federal expenditures estimated for 1952 fiscal year, as compared with fiscal year 1946, is for welfare and ordinary government expenditures, he stated.

The remedy, he indicated, lies with the people themselves. "We need a reversal in national attitude, in which as individuals and as organized groups we case demanding more and more subsidies from our Federal government," he declared. "We need the kind of leadership, in and out of government, that will bring about this reversal of national attitude, and a return to constitutional government."

Good Health

The good health of the country, he asserted, requires that we overcome the defeatism that is all too prevalent, that we cease stimulating inflation by piling up more government debt, and that we achieve a pay-as-we-go policy not by endlessly increasing taxes, but by making our tax dollars go farther.

Alluding to the menace of Communism he declared: "As free people we must with courage and intelligence demand respect for our country throughout the world, yet individually and collectively resolve to preserve our national solvency. While we still may, it behooves us to resist the subversion of our independence and the freedom and liberty which are the foundation stones of our heritage as Americans."

Mercury is a heavy, silvery metallic element that is liquid at ordinary temperatures.

Uncle Sam Now Gets 68c Of Tax Dollar

San Mateo County Receives 19c

About 69 cents out of every dollar the people of San Mateo county pay in taxes goes to the federal government, 19 cents is the county's share of state taxes bill, and 12 cents represents the tax levy on property in the county, California Taxpayers' association said today, analyzing the $145,536,000 tax bill which the people of the county paid during fiscal 1951.

Stateswide, each tax dollar which the people of California pay includes about 68 cents for Uncle Sam, 19 cents for the state of California, and 13 cents for local property taxes. Total tax bill on Californians for fiscal 1951 reached $6,168,941,000—and this figure does not include locally-levied sales taxes, licenses, fees, etc.

"Federal spending is taking the lion's share of the tax dollar," the association said, pointing out that another enormous budget will be presented to Congress shortly after it reconvenes. Expenditure authorizations for the present fiscal year reach $91.7 billion.

"Congress should—right at the start of its new session—establish a policy of holding federal expenditures to barest essentials," the Taxpayers' association declared.

"To do this, Congress needs to resume annual control over appropriations and allow only those which are absolutely essential in this re-mobilization period."

U. S. Defense Bonds are good for the citizen and good for the nation.

Korean Vets Call For Blood

"We gave all we could. We would appreciate it if you will give just a little.

"It's the human thing to do. There's no pain. There's nothing to fear. There's just a deep feeling of satisfaction."

Such was the appeal, voiced Monday, December 31, by two wounded veterans of the Korean fighting and two California housewives during the weekly statewide broadcast presented by the State Office of Civil Defense.

Appeal

The appeal was directed to all Californians to support the drive for blood donations for military and Civil Defense use. This week's program was focused on the need by Maj. Gen. Walter M. Robertson, State Director of Civil Defense, who assigned OCD Radio Reporter Doug Montell, to record the dedication ceremonies of "The Life Line," Southern Pacific's mobile railway blood bank.

During the exercises Montell interviewed Mrs. Leona Wedde of Palo Alto; Mrs. Jean Hollingsworth of San Mateo; Sgt. Emil Maunder of Los Angeles, and M/Sgt. William P. Parsons of Dallas, Texas.

Donation

Mrs. Hollingsworth has donated 29 pints of blood. Mrs. Wedde has given 18.

Sargeant Maunder received 18 transfusions and M/Sgt. Parsons, who lost his left leg, credits his multiple transfusions with saving his right leg.

Others who joined the appeal during the broadcast included A. T. Mercier, retiring president of the Southern Pacific, and Dr. John W. Cline, president of the American Medical Association.

POLITICAL SCENE

Leading GOP Presidential Candidates To Speak In San Francisco January 17

The four top Republican presidential possibilities will receive the favored spots on the Republican National Committee program at the Fairmont Hotel, January 17-19.

Leading off at the welcoming luncheon on Thursday, January 17 in the Fairmont's Gold Room, Governor Earl Warren will be the featured speaker, introduced by McIntyre Faires, national committeeman from California, following the opening of the meetings by Mrs. Marjorie H. E. Benedict, California national committeewomen and hostess of the meetings.

At the Thursday evening banquet the speaker probably will be Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio. The Friday luncheon will feature Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, head of the committee to nominate General Dwight D. Eisenhower. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota, and president of the University of Pennsylvania, will take his turn at the dinner scheduled for Friday, January 18. At the final luncheon before adjournment on Saturday, Senator William F. Knowland will make a special trip from Washington to make the concluding address.

The program of speakers was released today by A. F. Derre, chairman of the general committee for the Republican National Committee Meeting and Conferences. Derre said: "This is the first time in history that such an array of prospective presidential candidates have been in San Francisco at the same time. It affords an opportunity for westerners to measure the stature of today's Republican Party which has produced so many men of real presidential timber."

Public Meet

The luncheons and dinners at which these men will speak will be open to the public, as will the business meetings of the Republican National Committee. All luncheons and dinners will be in the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel, with the business meetings held in the Terrace Room.

Business meetings will commence at 2:30 p.m. on Thursday, January 17, and will continue with morning and afternoon sessions on January 18, and a morning session on January 19.

Buying Defense Bonds is one of the wisest and soundest investments an American can make, for himself, his family, their freedom and prosperity.

Self Lighting Cigarette Plant Site Planned For San Mateo County

Self lighting cigarettes may be manufactured in a San Mateo half-million dollar factory, it was announced today.

Frank Witt, president of the Commercial Tobacco corporation of San Francisco, is investigating possible sites in Burlingame, San Mateo and Redwood City.

The new cigarettes, brain child of Witt, are ignited through a small chemical disc at the end of each smoke. The end of the cigarette is scraped against ignition material at the side of the pack.

Witt claims no chemical odor permeates the cigarette.

He says the quartermaster general has expressed interest in the new invention for troops overseas.

REBER PLAN GROUP GETS NEW NAME

The group is now known as the California Water, Transit and Defense Project., Inc., a nonprofit organization, headed by John E. Pickett, editor of "California Farmer."

The first two objectives of the new group are a half-mile wide dirt causeway connecting San Francisco with the East Bay and a similar causeway connecting Contra Costa and Marin counties. The group has retained Allen Associations, Inc., of San Francisco, to elist engineering support for the plan. The group will propose a plan to save the 33,000,000 acre feet of water, now emptying out the Golden Gate each year.

Three Act Comedy Staged This Week

"The Curious Savage," a three act comedy, is being produced this Thursday, Friday, and Saturday at the San Mateo Junior College as the term production sponsored by the college Players Club.

The comedy will be staged in the auditorium of the Baldwin avenue campus under the direction of Robert Brauns, well known for his work with the Peninsula Little Theatre.

Starting time of the play is 8:30, and tickets will be on sale at the door each evening. The plot concerns the "curious" actions of a Mrs. Savage, a wealthy lady, and the attempt of her children to get her money.

This Friday night, also, San Mateo jaysee basketball players offer a league basketball game on the home court, with Contra Costa West jaysee as the opponent. Both teams made a good showing in the recent state tourney at Modesto, and Coach Ray Balsley predicts a worthwhile game this Friday. The Contra Costa players are short, speedy men who handle the ball capably. Starting time is 8 o'clock.

President Charles S. Morris of the junior college, vice-president of the American Association of Junior Colleges, is spending this week in Washington, D. C., where the organization committee of the association is making plans for the national meeting at Boston in June.

Thirty students have been nominated to compete for the 13 student body offices to be filled for service in the spring semester, and campaigning is now underway on all three jaysee campuses.

St. Olaf Choir Concert Slated For February 3

The San Francisco War Memorial Opera House will be the scene of a concert by the world-famous St. Olaf Choir on Sunday evening, February 3.

The Choir, which is appearing in San Francisco for the fourth time, is composed of 60 college students from Northfield, Minnesota. St. Olaf is a four year liberal arts college situated in this picturesque town in southern Minnesota.

The college home of the singers recently observed its Diamond Jubilee Anniversary. The need for higher Christian education was sensed by the early Norwegian settlers in the midwest and St. Olaf was founded to meet this need. During the early years of its existence the college was able to survive only through the sacrifices of many.

Today, the St. Olaf student body numbers about 1500. The college prides itself on the high caliber of scholastic attainment, and has earned an enviable reputation throughout the nation by the contribution of its graduates to all fields of education, business and the professions.

The music department of this school has long been held in high esteem. The college was hardly twenty-five years old when it brought to its campus the man who was to mold a choir which would have national and international fame. This man was Dr. F. Melius Christiansen, who came to St. Olaf in 1903. From his early work, great things soon developed. Through his influence, "a cappella" singing has grown throughout the nation.

DEAR PARENTS

ITEM: Five a.m. and that light in my eyes is not the dawn breaking, but my husband with the flashlight giving me gentle warning to hit the deck. I bury my face in the pillow, but the dream is over and I need some coffee anyway. I arise.

ITEM: Six a.m. is not so bad with a fire going in the fireplace, a mug of coffee in the hand. The rats are out of my hair and the sand out of my eyes and the time has come to consider the matter of sandwiches for the children's lunches. Shall it be tuna or peanut butter. Out of tuna—so I gag a little over the odor of peanuts before breakfast and wrap the squares quickly in wax paper. Malcolm, I write on bag one. Barbara, on bag number two.

ITEM: Six-thirty and for once the paper boy is on time. I hear the thump on the front porch and rush to the door. The headlines look fairly ordinary, so will save them for after work. Ah, the funnies and a quick look at the horoscope for the day. "Behind the scenes discussions and produce big results in the form of added efficiency in handling frustrating problems. Help everyone in distress!" Malcolm calls just then. He cannot snap the top button of his jeans and as I help him I feel a warm glow over my horoscope's coming true so soon.

ITEM: Six forty-five and time to leave for nursery school. Coat, scarf, keys, kisses all around and out into the chill breeze coming up from the Pacific. Down, down, down the hill taking deep breaths and seeing the lights wink way out on the Farallones, but keeping a sharp eye out for headlights on Hillside and Mission streets. "Good morning," I say to the woman I pass each day and she bobs her bandanna in answer and hurries to catch her bus.

ITEM: Seven a.m. and the door of Toyland swings open—and shuts on my bottom before I can get all the way inside. That new spring on the door will bear watching, I say to myself, and switch on the lights.

ITEM: Seven ten and someone is banging on the door which is stuck. "I'm coming, I'm coming," I shout and run to open it. The first child arrives and the day begins.

ITEM: It was a good day, too!

Banking that is Building California!

Emerson said "An institution is the lengthened shadow of one man"—a sentence which aptly describes California's Bank of America. For here, indeed, is an institution which carries on today in the same pioneer spirit which always motivated its founder—A. P. Giannini.

Born in California of pioneer parents, A. P. Giannini brought to banking the zeal which made possible the growth of this California-wide institution—in 48 years to become the world's largest bank—a bank founded on the concept of public service . . . of banking for all, large and small.

That pioneer spirit resulted in the introduction of the school savings plan which now teaches thrift to more than five hundred thousand young Californians.

That pioneer spirit has enabled this bank to lead the way in the small loan field with its many Timeplan services . . . and lead the way in providing loans for homes and businesses to veterans and others . . . to lend hundreds of millions of dollars to California farmers for the purchase of farms, livestock, seed and equipment.

That pioneer spirit has enabled Bank of America to make an all-important contribution to civic development throughout California by the purchase of hundreds of millions of dollars worth of municipal bonds for schools, hospitals, airports and other improvements.

And within the last year that pioneer spirit motivated this bank in its retention of Saturday banking service, so that its own more than four million depositors, as well as other Californians, might be served.

Here, indeed, is Banking that is Building California—building your state and your community through 529 branches in as many California neighborhoods.

Under a Spell

"MY DAUGHTER is 22," writes Mabel Blake, from a small Illinois town. "She is tiny, wears size 10 clothes, and looks about 12. She has always been a great favorite, and much in demand by the nicest crowd here. At 15 she was having young admirers very much in earnest, and last year she announced her engagement to one of the finest men we know. Her father and I were very happy about it. Pam has always had a very steady little head on her shoulders, and she chose a man of 29, who passed the bar with honors, and is already established with a fine legal firm in Evanston. In every way Clyde is the ideal mate for her.

"Four months ago a man came to town with an unpleasantly free manner, no job, and a bad record. That is, at 21, he is already being divorced, the father of a small child for whom he apparently cares nothing, and altogether an undesirable person.

Dreamy State

"However, he sings, he fills in on radio programs, he is handsome, and Pamela has fallen completely under his spell. She has broken her engagement to Clyde, and all we hear is Hal, Hal, Hal. She seems to be in a dreamy state utterly unlike her old self; she has an answer for everything; nothing we can say seems to penetrate.

"My husband has made Hal feel that he is unwelcome here. Pam meets him at the corner and they go off together almost every evening. That she has seen him the worse for alcohol I know, and we also know that she has lent him money, for my son, who works in the bank, has had an opportunity to ascertain this.

"We've always had a happy home; my husband is the best of men and a most considerate father; there seems to be no reason why Pam should turn away from us all, and jeopardize everything she has ever known for this boy. Clyde came from the city to talk to her about it last Sunday; Pam would no nothing but laugh and joke, and instead of driving him to the train as she always has done, went off with Hal, and left us to handle Clyde.

". . . be is unwelcome . . ."

"This morning she tells me that his divorce, which his wife is getting in California, will be granted in a few weeks, and then he and she will be married, and she asked that we don't argue about it. Is there any accounting for this foolishness, and is there any way in which she can be stopped?"

Mother Nature's Job

It's Mother Nature's job to account for the foolishness, Mabel, not mine. It's an expensive form of foolishness, but Mother Nature never did bother about expenses. It means that that curious chemical – I prefer the word reversed myself, and call it "alchemic"—insanity has gotten hold of Pamela; whether it's all physical or all mental or both, nobody seems to know. But it produces the grand passion, that ephemeral feeling of lightness and ecstasy, that absorption in the presence of another person, that heady intoxication that makes only what he says important, and makes him one's entire interest.

He may be, as in this case, far from an admirable person. Pamela may be headed for bitter disillusionment, and probably is. But that doesn't mean that his lightest word, his lightest touch, doesn't thrill her as she has never been thrilled in her life before. As for warmer signs of affection, praise in his magical voice, the pressure of those handsome lips, the firm hold of those manly arms—well, she is living in a world colored by those and nothing else, and for the moment it is a glorious world.

It is hard for you. It will be harder for her. She will find herself, in a few years, possibly in a few months, in a small cheap apartment, with breakfast dishes hanging on unwashed until noon because Hal hates to get up, with a flat pocketbook, with even margarine and frankfurters beyond the budget, because there is no budget, and every pound of coffee a problem.

Thousands of girls meet this experience every year, and they add to the long list of divorces simply because the material of a successful marriage isn't there—never was there. They have sense enough not to buy shoddy clothing or go to poor shows or invest in Arctic banana plantations, but when it comes to a spurious human being they let their young passion, their vanity, their credulity carry the day.

Pamela will be back with you in a year or two, perhaps with a small bewildered baby whose only knowledge of his father will be bad.

When the fantasy-fiction writers describe certain places on this planet as containing mysteries of pre-historic times, they have some factual justification for their imagination.

As far as is known there exists on this globe at least one land whose ice-bound wastes contain the bodies of one known kind of pre-historic animal. The animal is the mammoth, a large extinct

[illegible]nt, and the land is Siberia. The Terrible used to serve Co[illegible] Am[illegible] steaks to his guests. On [illegible]gation it was revealed that [illegible] of his hunters had located specimens of the mammoth preserved for centuries in the terrible cold of that northern land and that this was the main fare on Ivan's table.

No one knows how many more of these pre-historic elephants with the enormous tusks lie frozen deep in the heart of Siberia. Furthermore, who knows what other specimens of millions of years ago are also here? Siberia with its gigantic, thick forests, its untold miles of snow and ice may conceal secrets of the earth's past that would put to shame the imagination of any of the fantasy-science writers of this and any other time.

The findings in the La Brea tar pits in Los Angeles and in other warm parts of the globe may be as nothing compared to what exists preserved in the centuries old ice of Siberia.

These friendly neighbors include Mesdames: Lorraine Bavaro, Lillian Caime, Sally Cambridge, Eleanor Doyle, Diane Gravett, Elizabeth Kirby, Ann MacNealy, Stella Siedel, Doris Olmanson, Patricia Urbanus, Wilma Van Aken, and Geraldine Vickers.

SAFETY CONFERENCE SLATED FEBRUARY 18

Governor Earl Warren today announced he is calling a statewide industrial safety conference in San Francisco, February 18 and 19.

Representatives of labor and management from all branches of industry are being invited to attend the California Industrial Safety Conference and give their assistance in combatting the mounting toll of occupational injuries.

The broad objectives of the U. S. Defense Bond program for 1952 are: to widen the ownership of the national debt, further mobilize the power of regular saving behind our defense effort and thus help check inflation as the defense program expands.

School Nurse Gives Instructive Talk At Parent-Teacher Meeting

Miss Antoinette Gattuccio, Jefferson District school nurse, was the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Colma PTA held at the Colma Community Center Tuesday.

Her topic was, "Health—A Precious Commodity." She emphasized the importance of keeping our children home at the first sign of a cold, as most communicable diseases start with symptoms very similar to the common cold. She also urged that we keep our children home during the required quarantine period after having any contagious disease, not only as a safeguard to other children in the community but to our own child as well, since many serious effects can come as a result of too short a period of convalescence. A very lively and instructive discussion period followed her interesting talk.

The Colma PTA voted to have a Leap Year Fashion Show and Silver Tea as its fund-raising project for the year, the proceeds to go into the General Fund. It will be held on Friday, February 29, at the home of Mrs. Ramon Gomez, 100 Adler avenue, Colma.

Mrs. John C. Wiesner, president, has appointed the following committees for the affair: Mesdames Wm. Chessman and Dale Stookey, Telephone; Ramon Gomez, Music; John D. Hansen, J. J. Offenbach, Allan Mori, Sewing; Jack Clayton, J. D. Hopper, and J. C. Wiesner, Hospitality; William Chessman, Handwork. The Executive Board is acting as a committee-of-the-whole for the tea, and elaborate plans are already being made.

The Unit elected Mrs. William Chessman, who is an honorary life member and treasurer, as chairman of the Honorary Life Membership Committee for this year. Her committee has the task of selecting some person to receive this honor which will be given at next month's Founders' Day meeting, February 5, 1952.

The following members were elected to serve on the nominating committee to select a slate of candidates to be elected as officers at the annual meeting in March: Mrs. Val Balbi, Mrs. R. E. Brandon, Mrs. Henry Leavitt, Mrs. Claude Newman, and Mrs. Edward J. Dennis. Mrs. Claude Newman has been elected as chairman of this committee.

The two book-binding groups will meet Thursday, January 17, 1952, at 10 a.m. and at 1 p.m. in the teacher's room at the Jefferson Elementary school.

Dressmaking Class Enrollment Opens

People interested in making their own clothes and keeping up with the current fashions are invited to enroll in the dressmaking class at Balboa Adult School, Onondaga and Cayuga avenues.

Along with the actual dressmaking, this class includes a lecture covering the cutting and construction of garments, including correct finishing of various types of pockets, button holes, seams, etc., as well as individual instruction and fitting.

This class, a service of the San Francisco Public Schools, meets each Monday and Wednesday evening from 7 to 9 p.m. There is no tuition fee.

Motor Tax Nets Daly City $19,114

County Receipts Amount To $202,276

Thomas H. Kuchel, state controller, today announced apportionment of $18,173,262 to cities and counties of the state.

The apportionment for San Mateo county total $202,276.

Daly City's share of the funds will amount to $19,114, while Colma will receive $373.

The fund represents the Motor Vehicle License Fee, better known as the "in lieu" tax for June 1 to November 30.

Per capita rate, according to the Controller, is slightly under $1.26 for cities, and 86 cents for counties.

During the collection period, a total of $19,469,830 was paid to the State for "in lieu" taxes, that is, taxes on vehicles which previously were collected by cities and counties.

From the amount collected, $481,562 was deducted for interest on State Highway Bonds; $814,589 for support of the Motor Vehicle Department and $417 for a legislative claim.

The "in lieu" tax is assessed by the State at the rate of $2.00 per hundred market value of the vehicle.

Driving in low gear longer than necessary causes the engine of your car to use more gasoline per mile, reminds the California State Automobile Association. For best fuel economy, use low gear only when necessary.

The engine of your car will burn less oil if the oil level is kept near the full mark, states the California State Automobile Association. A low quantity of oil encourages overheating and thus thinning of the oil. In that condition it burns off more easily.

Call Goes Out For Daly City To Form CD Squad

Debris Clearance Outfit Needed

Quotas calling for immediate mobilization of fully-equipped debris-clearance squads and demolition and damage survey teams to be ready for instant use in the event of a disaster or enery attack will shortly be assigned to each city and county in the Bay Area, including Daly City, according to regional headquarters of the State Office of Civil Defense.

At a meeting of operational area engineer services chiefs representing the nine Bay Area counties, Harry H. Stoops, Regional Coordinator of the State Office of Civil Defense and Brig. General Dwight F. Johns, USA (ret), State Civil Defense Engineering Chief, outlined requirements which each Operational area would be expected to meet in the organization of engineering resources for self-help and mutual aid under State Civil Defense plans. Actual assignment of mobilization "tasks" will be passed on to cities and unincorporated areas immediately, it was said.

Burden

Though main burden of organization rests with major metropolitan areas of San Francisco and Oakland as potential "target areas," each city and county in the Region will be expected to contribute its share of such facilities towards a common pool under the plan. Thus they not only will be providing for their own protection in an emergency, but also will form a sizeable resource from which engineering facilities may be drawn as mutual aid or mobile support into regions which may suffer major devastation.

Principal tasks of the debris clearance squads in anemergency will be to clear rubble and masonry from blocked arteries to permit movement of rescue, fire-fighting, utility repair, evacuation and other facilities in the affected areas.

No Outlay

No stockpiling or purchase of new equipment is planned or suggested under the state plan, according to General Johns. Surveys have shown that equipment and manpower now in existence and day-to-day use in most communities will be adequate for the purpose. The major problem is that of inventory and organization so that they can be put to use promptly and effectively when and where they are needed, he pointed out.

Major resources from which the engineering service squads and teams will be drawn are from city and county public works and building inspection facilities, private contractors and construction firms, professional engineer and architect societies, and manufacturers and distributors of explosives. Such agencies will be asked to "sponsor" one or more such teams or in the case of smaller organizations, to combine with other agencies in the formation of the teams and their equipment. Workers who volunteer to serve on the teams will be registered with their local Civil Defense agencies to provide coverage under the State Workmen's Compensation Act.

Minimum

Minimum effective requirements of one debris clearance squad, according to Civil Defense estimates, include three shifts of twenty five workers each, equipped with bulldozer, cranes, wreckers, trucks, floodlights, cutting equipment and similar gear. Damage survey teams, whose principal functions would be to provide data for major decisions as to abandonment, repair or restoration of vital buildings or utilities, would be smaller and consist of lightly equipped engineering personnel.

SPORTS

CAGE SEASON OPENS FRIDAY EVENING

Orlich's "One Tall And Four Short" Expected To Rank High In PAL

Jefferson High's basketball future today rests on the speed and spirit of four short men, with the assistance of one tall veteran.

That's the way Coach Mike Orlich sees it, as the Jefferson cagers open the Peninsula Athletic League this Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock on the home town reservation against San Jose.

This year's quintet looks like a pocket sized edition of the ideal five tall man team. Outside of Center Dick Bergstresser, the other four lads measure below the 5 foot 10 inch line.

"However, what we have lost in size we are going to make up in speed and accuracy," Orlich said today as he gazed into his crystal ball.

Handicapped by height, the team is also at a disadvantage in that only one player . . . that same giant of a Bergstresser . . . is the only seasoned member of the varsity. All the others are wearing the varsity number for the first season.

No Tears

But is Orlich weeping? He is not. He predicts the lads will give any of the PAL wonder teams a bad, bad time. And in a fit of optimism, he is wagering there is more than a slim chance the Jefferson cagers will come home with the league championship.

The four short, spirited men who hit the boards Friday night include Larry Blanchard and Don Delbon as forwards, and Don Wilson and Richard Moquin as guards. Angelo Calorie is a close contender for a guard's spot, as is Don Trevasks.

To-date Orlich's boys have won but one of five practice games. Orlich notes his boys were in the winning until the fourth quarter, but lack of experience carried the competitors to the final win. He thinks this may be overcome with the season opener.

The 30's

Other contenders for first spot on the varsity include: Larry Hutchison, Dick Trantham, Stan Davis, Bob Davis, Daryl Smith and Norm Cady.

The Jeff 30's, coached by Joe McGrath, will feature Don Rose as forward in the opening game, along with George Baskirk. Ray Rosa will fill the center spot while Phil Kaufmann and Paul Bolinger will come in as guards.

Pushing for attention on the 30's team are these other lads: Herbert Frost, Charles Olson, Don Michellucci, George Schriber, Bill Leslie, Joe Ruelas, Allan Kenier, Bob Church, Joe Galente, William Crier and Charles Carroll.

Daly City Lions Meet The Army

Col. Busch Guest Speaker Wednesday

No one upped and joined the army at the Lions Club meeting, Wednesday; but this was no reflexion on the speaking ability of the club's guest, Lt. Col. Ray O. Busch.

Col. Busch, currently head of the San Francisco recruiting station, pointed out the various activities of the army to attendant listeners. As more than one Lion can moan of service with either the army or navy—marines don't count—there was an unusual amount of attention paid to Col. Brusch's words.

Despite the tone of Col. Brusch's message, the Lions did enjoy an interesting afternoon and learned much about the need of an ever enlarged and efficient army to protect our country from aggression.

Another type of aggression will be the topic of next week's guest speaker. He will be Paul B. Jensen, special investigator for Sheriff Earl Whitmore. Jensen will speak on the narcotics problem as related to San Mateo county.

Meanwhile, the Lions thank all those who so generously donated toys and other gifts to their annual Christmas drive. Joe Belli, publicity chairman, roared with pleasure today as he noted the Christmas event was a roaring success.

Horn Named To Improve State Hunting-Fishing

Everett E. Horn, one of the Nation's outstanding waterfowl specialists, this week took over his duties as administrator of California Wildlife Conservation Board projects designed to improve California's hunting and fishing.

Horn, whose appointment was effective January 1, will work closely with Seth Gordon, Director of the State Department of Fish and Game, in expediting completion of the more than nine million dollars' worth of fish, game and waterfowl projects which the Board has programmed.

A graduate of Washington State College and Stanford University, Horn in 1919 joined the U. S. Biological Survey (which later became part of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service) and in 1928 was transferred to Berkeley, where he has headquartered since. In 1935 he became head of the U. S. forest wildlife research work in the western states, and in 1943 was assigned to waterfowl depredation studies for the entire Nation. His work, in cooperation with the Department of Fish and Game and farmers, reduced waterfowl depredations in California from more than $2 million annually to about $25,000.

Horn was loaned by U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service to the Wildlife Conservation Board in 1948 as special assistant on waterfowl problems to Gordon, then the Board's Consultant. He returned to the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service in 1950 as chief of the drainage liaison section in Washington, D. C., until his retirement this December after 32 years' service.

Bowling League

Three Teams Tied For First Honors As Series Enters Third Phase Monday

Opening the third series of the Daly City bowling league, three teams tied for first place Monday evening.

Keglers with 25 wins and 20 losses to their credit include the members of the Daly City Lions club, College Hill Meat Market, and the Central Club.

Much of the credit for the tie can go to the fine bowling of such gents as Frank Swanson who came through with 216 Monday night to assure his lead in the overall series with 573 points, and to boost College Hill up in the top bracket. A Central Club lad, Tony Santon, is doing his bit for the boys by rolling a 207 for a 541 series scor

However, the top individu game of the evening was chalke up for Al Sperlick with 222. Trou ble is, Sperlick's team, the Fores ers of America, are third from th cellar.

But the distance between th cellar and the top floor is might small. Here are the team stanc ings outside of the top three, t date:

FOR REMOVING PLUGS

Spark plugs always are easie to remove when cool, declares th National Automobile Club. Bot the plug and its port expand whe the engine block is hot.

THERE'S ONLY ONE WAY I can figure it," said Henry Carter, conductor on the Continental Limited, "Beatty got rid of the bag of gems by throwing them off the train."

"You're quite sure Beatty is guilty?" Inspector Linton asked.

"Postive. The way I look at it, it couldn't have been any one else. However," he added, "I'm smart enough to realize we can't prove a thing on him unless we find the gems. He knows it, too. That's why he's so confident."

"Any idea where he may have thrown them off?"

"Yes. I've checked his and other passengers' activities last night pretty closely. It seems there were people up roaming around half the night. Beatty must have tossed off the bag somewhere between the watering station at Smithtown and the flagstop at Benton." He gestured, "Of course, there are 50 miles of railroad in between."

"Fifty miles," mused Linton. At the moment the job of recovering the gems seemed remote. "Either Beatty knows exactly where to look for the gems, or he had an accomplice waiting to receive them."

A highway followed the railroad for most of the 50 miles. Inspector Linton drove along it slowly in his automobile. He kept his eyes fixed on the railroad's rite-of-way. "One place," he thought, "would be as good as another." Then he fell to meditating on the reward the railroad had offered for the recovery of the gems and the apprehension of the thief. The railroad couldn't afford to have its passengers robbed. Bad business. And Linton, with a wife in the hospital, could certainly use that $500 reward.

About 20 miles east of Benton the highway detoured around a small-sized lake. The railroad skirted its opposite shore. When nearing the farther end of the detour the Inspector noticed a by-road that cut down toward the shore. Acting on a hunch, he turned into it.

The shack that stood on the lake's shore appeared to have been long-since abandoned. Yet when Linton stopped his car he saw smoke coming from the chimney. When he knocked on the door there was a movement inside as though some one had been startled. Another curious impulse urged Linton to push open the door. What he saw gave him something of a shock.

A small man, dressed in city clothes, was sitting at a table. He was in the act of closing a small black bag.

"Well, well, well," said Linton. "Looks as though I arrived in the very nick of time."

"Who are you?" the man asked, his eyes narrowing.

"Inspector Linton from Benton." The small man stared a minute. His eyes went past Linton to the door. He stood up, smiling sickishly. "Well, I'm sure glad you've come, Inspector. I've been wondering what to do with these things." He gestured toward the bag. "This here bag is full of jewelry."

Inspector Linton didn't move. The announcement puzzled him. He hadn't been expecting any such confession. Recovering the gems was only part of his job. He wanted the man who had stolen them.

"That makes everything just fine. Those jewels were stolen last night from a passenger on the Limited. How did you happen to get hold of them?"

The man's eyes grew wide. "That certainly explains a lot. I was out fishing this morning and saw the bag lying beneath the surface of the water near the railroad bridge. Naturally I investigated."

"Do you usually fish in such bad weather? There's been a terrific wind blowing all morning. The lake, I noticed, was pretty choppy."

"Weather or no," the man smiled, "there's always good fishing here. I built this shack about 10 years ago. I come up here every summer and live in it a couple of weeks and fish."

Linton slid his hand into his coat pocket. There was no mistaking the significance of the bulge his pocket made. "You lie like hell, mister!"

"What do you mean?"

"I mean you were posted here by Beatty, the man who committed the robbery. You're as much in it as he is."

"Did that dirty rat—say, wait a minute. You haven't got anything on me. You can't prove a thing."

The little man's attitude underwent a change. Cunning crept into his eyes. He had almost slipped when Linton implied Beatty had squealed, but had caught himself in time.

"I can prove you're a liar. That cock and bull story won't hold an ounce of weight before a jury. 'Cause why? 'Cause I can prove it would have been impossible for you to see a black bag lying below the surface of the water. Even crystal clear water is made impenetrable to the human eye when agitated to the slightest degree. Try it sometime and see. And last night and this morning there was such a high wind—"

Apparently the little man had forgotten about the bulge in Inspector Linton's pocket. He leaped for the door, simultaneously hurling the bag at the officer's head and reaching beneath his own coat. Linton did considerable damage to his pocket when he fired, but he figured with $500 reward money he could buy himself a whole new suit.
